Greenscoombe Walk

 Allow: 1 hr to complete this riverside walk

 A 1hr moderate woodland walk flanking the river Tamar connecting the villages of Luckett and Latchley, with a twisty Fisherman's path.

There are no nearby public toilets and stout footwear is essential as sections of the path become muddy during wet weather and high river levels.

- Your starting point is the free carpark in Luckett just near the bridge PL17 8NJ
- Exit the car park left walking away from the village via a small tarmac lane. Passing very pretty cottages with glimpses of river Tamar
- The tarmac lane turns into a gravel track to enter Greenscoombe Woodland
- Keeping the river to your left remain on the main track, crossing the stream with a small bridge
- Continue along this well-defined track following the wooden sign with the Tamar Discovery apple logo
- Cross a second stream via a small stone bridge and admire a fine granite memorial bench

Now you can make a choice.

1. The lower small Fishermans Path is directly on the river bank. This single-track path is muddy and twisty with criss crossing tree roots and some fallen tree trunks to clamber over. It is not advisable to take this route when the river level is high. You will reach the ford and be greeted with a fantastic swimming spot .
 2. For an easier route stay on the main track rising above the riverbank to reach a turning circle. Hairpin down to the left to reach the ford and a great swimming spot .
- Return to Luckett using the elevated easier route to your starting point
